Democrats vow to expose Trump's web of corruption

Prez's business deals, family dealings under intense scrutiny

WASHINGTON

Corruption topped the list of concerns for voters who ousted Republicans and handed Democrats control of Congress in the midterm elections. Now, the newly empowered Democratic Party is putting the issue front and centre as its leaders chart their course for investigations and policymaking.

Senior Democrats in both chambers of Congress have vowed to marshal the subpoena powers and larger investigative staffs that come with their soon-to-be majorities to probe what they say is the self-enrichment that President Donald Trump and people in his orbit have done at the public's expense. The Republican president and his White House have long denied any wrongdoing.

House Democrats are preparing a vast oversight agenda to look at how Trump and his family have become wealthier since he returned to office - and Democratic leader Hakeem Jeffries of New York, who's in line to become House speaker, has not ruled out trying to impeach Trump for a third time.

Months ago, Jeffries tasked the ranking Democrats on the Oversight and Judiciary committees, Rep. Robert Garcia of California and Rep. Jamie Raskin of Maryland, with leading the effort, as Democrats work to link the costs of public corruption to the affordability concerns hitting Americans' pocketbooks.

Democratic leaders celebrate projected House gains at Washington watch party.

Democrats eye major ICE operations, Epstein & DOGE investigations

Garcia outlined five priorities, including Trump family business dealings, the Epstein investigation and ICE operations. Rep. Jared Huffman wants to examine White House construction projects and the Trump family's mineral deals. Senate Democrats are also planning investigations into Trump's real estate and cryptocurrency dealings. Sen. Richard Blumenthal has flagged ICE raids, DOGE activities and Medicare policies as potential areas of scrutiny. Sen. Ron Wyden, meanwhile, wants to examine banks' links to Jeffrey Epstein's financial dealings and pharmaceutical companies allegedly benefiting from ties to the Trump administration.

President's lawyers face appeals court over hush money conviction

- President Donald Trump 's lawyers will try to persuade a New York appeals court Thursday to throw out his hush money conviction, two years after it made history.
- The conviction, on 34 felony counts of falsifying business records to obscure a $130,000 payment to adult film performer Stormy Daniels, continues to nettle Trump enough that he denounced it on social media as recently as September.
- The president denies any wrongdoing, and he has turned to state and federal courts in hopes of unwinding the verdict. He is not expected to attend Thursday's court session. The appeal involves complex legal issues but carries clear political undertones. Trump's lawyers argue that the case resulted from political pressure on a Democratic prosecutor, echoing the president's repeated claims of political targeting.

Jaishankar urges Commonwealth partners to 'de-risk and diversify'

ST. JOHN'S

External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar has urged Commonwealth partners to "de-risk and diversify", emphasising the need to enhance local distribution among member nations.

Jaishankar arrived in St. John's, Antigua and Barbuda, on Tuesday to attend the Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting (CHOGM).

"Commonwealth partners also need to de-risk and diversify. This requires shorter and trusted supply chains," Jaishankar posted on social media after attending the Commonwealth heads of government and business leaders' breakfast meeting on Wednesday. Jaishankar said Commonwealth partners need to make more efforts to enhance local distribution, adding that more connectivity corridors are good for business. "Promote training and capacity building as it gives more options for partners," he said. EAM said that the Indian business community spread across the world is an asset for the Commonwealth. Speaking about the significance of digital public infrastructure for good governance, Jaishankar said, "Digital is a game changer as it promotes efficiency, good governance and growth." "International Solar Alliance and the Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure can be leveraged for climate action," Jaishankar said.

Sharing India's experiences in Humanitarian Assistance and Disaster Relief (HADR), Jaishankar said, "Our First Responder experiences and HADR activities suggest the need for local hubs." He said that comfort within the Commonwealth nations "can build business for growth and prosperity", adding that mobility of skills can be an important Commonwealth focus.

EAM Jaishankar and Guyana President Mohamed Irfaan Ali sign agreements at CHOGM 2026 in Antigua and Barbuda.

India extends $500 mn credit line to Guyana

India has announced an extension of a USD 500 million line of credit for roads, health and defence projects in Guyana as External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar met Guyanese President Mohamed Irfaan Ali in Antigua and Barbuda. Jaishankar, who arrived in St. John's on Tuesday, met President Ali on sidelines of Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting (CHOGM) on Wednesday.

French unions launch nationwide strikes, put Macron govt on edge

PARIS

Hundreds of thousands of trade union members joined nationwide strikes and demonstrations on Thursday to demand higher wages and support the high school protest movement, piling fresh pressure on the beleaguered government.

After more than a month of large, recurring protests across France, major rallies took place again in Paris, Lyon, Marseille and elsewhere.

An official close to Interior Minister Laurent Nunez said that by early afternoon around 270,000 people had joined the union action in 180 rallies outside of the capital, and that most of them were peaceful.

The official, however, noted some violence in the cities of Lyon, Nantes, Pau, Orleans, Rennes and Toulouse.

Protesters carrying trade union flags gathered as hundreds of musicians played string, brass and percussion instruments, accompanied by singers.

Nunez said that 70,000 police officers were being deployed, backed by armoured vehicles, drones and helicopters. Police have been criticised for injuring protesters with heavy-handed tactics.

- Students also staged fresh protests across France, disrupting educational institutions and public services.
- Nearly one-third of the country's high schools were either shut or unable to function, with student blockades and teacher strikes affecting operations.
- Public transportation services faced major disruptions, leaving commuters struggling to reach their destinations.
- Authorities in the northeastern city of Strasbourg urged residents to remain extremely cautious around certain schools amid demonstrations.

Many demonstrations have been marred by violence, much of it committed by masked rioters who do not support the students' or workers' demands.

Authorities in the western region of Brittany said "masked individuals" tried to block roads in Rennes on Thursday.

Putin not welcome at G20 summit: UK PM

LONDON

British Prime Minister Andy Burnham said Russian President Vladimir Putin would not be invited to next year's G20 summit in Britain. When asked by media personnel whether Putin would receive an invitation, Burnham replied, "No".

His office did not immediately respond to a request for comment. US Secretary of State Marco Rubio had said in September that Washington invited Putin to a G20 meeting in Miami in December to provide an opportunity to engage with President Donald Trump and other world leaders.

Russia remains a G20 member despite Western efforts to isolate it following its invasion of Ukraine.
